

UNIVERSITÀ
DEGLI STUDI
DI BERGAMO

Dipartimento
di Lingue, Letterature
e Culture Straniere

The Old English Translation of the Historia Apollonii Regis Tyrii Reframing a Latin Romance in Pre-Conquest England

13-14 April 2026

Room 1, Piazza Rosate 2

The Old English Apollonius of Tyre – preserved uniquely in Cambridge, Corpus Christi College, MS201 – has increasingly been recognized as a text of remarkable cultural and literary significance. A fragmentary late antique romance, reshaped within the monastic context of pre-Conquest England, it bridges the realms of narrative entertainment, Christian moral instruction, and ideological reflections on kingship and community. This conference invites renewed engagement with the Old English Apollonius as both a text of transmission and transformation. We aim to consider its place not only within the codicological context of CCC 201, but also within the broader European reception and adaptation of the Historia Apollonii Regis Tyrii.

Scientific Committee:

Gabriele Cocco
Università degli studi di Bergamo

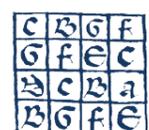

Francis Leneghan
University of Oxford

www.unibg.it

Sponsored by:

UNIVERSITY OF OXFORD

SeSTAM
Seminario di studi
tardoantichi e
medievali UniBG